Job Description (information limited to the box size)

As Pastor of Manor Presbyterian, the major responsibilities will be to lovingly serve as Solo Pastor, plan and lead weekly worship – preaching and administering the monthly sacraments as scheduled. He should present sound biblical doctrine, both in actions and in voice. The Pastor will officiate at funerals and weddings as requested, moderate Session, conduct new member classes, and provide pastoral care – availability to the members, visitation and counseling. Priority should be given to hospital visitation, and to emergency and bereavement situations. Additional responsibilities include providing leadership training and guidance to the Church leaders and volunteers. The pastor will work with the Session to strengthen how the church is structured in terms of boards, committees and programs. He will also work with the Session to develop a vision of how the church can become a more vibrant witness to the love of Jesus Christ in the community as they encourage and support new, God-directed, programs and ministries. The most important responsibilities will be to know the church members; meeting, greeting and praying for them, not only the regular attendees, but also those on the fringe. He should be able to build loving relationships with the congregants and make them feel valued in the Lord. He should also pray for them and take the time to understand their needs and where they need to grow in Christ, all the while teaching them to be disciples of the Word.
