Who we are: A diverse, non-denominational, multi-generational community, deeply committed to living out the hope we find Jesus, sharing that hope with our friends, neighbors, and community. We recognize the priority of equipping parents as primary disciplers of their families and desire to build kids and youth ministry within that priority. We intentionally seek to address issues of injustice and reconciliation. We're a hard-working, fun-loving staff team looking forward to discerning fresh ministry expressions in the post-Covid-19 era.
