

Procedural Outline

This outline is for informational purposes only. Though every attempt has been made to keep these accurate, the Rules of Discipline found in the BCO are the only binding source for the procedures to be followed.

	BCO	Item	Date
1.	31-1, 33-1, 34-1	Allegations received by clerk of court with jurisdiction	_____
2.	31-2	Investigation commenced	_____
2.1		Committee/Commission appointed to conduct (optional)	_____

First Meeting

The steps outlined below are the only steps that can be taken at the first meeting, unless both parties (the accused and the prosecutor) agree and any witnesses to be called are present. If both parties agree and it is practicable, the court can proceed to trial immediately (BCO 32-3).

	BCO	Item	Date
1.	31-2	Investigation conducted by court, or report of investigative committee/commission	_____
2.	31-2	Determination of “strong presumption of guilt” F.P. Ramsay: “A strong presumption means a belief by the members of the Court that the evidence as then known by them would indicate that guilt probably exists; unless evidence to the contrary can be produced not then known to them.” (pp.185f.)	_____
2.1.		If no strong presumption of guilt, formal process is over and the court may act as it deems fit for the situation.	_____
2.2.	31-2	If the court determines there is a strong presumption of guilt, process must be instituted. Morton Smith: “Once a Court has determined to enter into an investigation, then the Court no longer has discretion of not instituting a process if strong presumption of guilt appears. In other words, only if the investigation has failed to produce strong evidence of guilt, may the Court decide not to institute process. The Court may, even when believing there is no guilt, institute process for the purpose of vindicating the innocent party. Thus the Court has unlimited discretion, except when a strong presumption of guilt has been raised by the investigation. Then the Court must institute process.” (p.302)	_____
3.	15-3	Court determines whether to try case itself or appoint a judicial commission to try the case	_____
4.	31-2, 32-3.1	Prosecutor appointed to prepare the indictment and to conduct the case	_____
	31-2	- Presbytery: Prosecutor must be a member of the Presbytery; Session: prosecutor may be any communing member of the same congregation
	31-5	- Injured parties, or those with knowledge of personal offenses, can not be prosecutors unless they have tried the means of reconciliation.
	31-9	- Every voluntary prosecutor shall be warned that if he fail to show probably cause of the charges, he may himself be censured as a slanderer of the brethren.
5.	31-2, 32-3.2	Indictment ordered to be drawn and a copy, with names of witnesses known then to support it, served on the accused	_____
	31-4	- Every indictment shall begin: “In the name of the Presbyterian Church in America,” and shall conclude, “against the peace, unity and purity of the Church and the honor and majesty of the Lord Jesus Christ, as the King and Head thereof.”
	32-5	- The times, places, and circumstances should, if possible, be particularly stated

Other notes

1. Disciplinary procedures are held in executive session (RONR (11th ed.), p.95, ll. 24-26). Robert's Rules has very strict limits on executive session. Among other things:
  - 1.1. Only the members of the court (in the case of a Presbytery: only the TEs and those REs who were appointed delegates of their Sessions for that meeting), the accused (and his counsel, if before a Session and not a member of the court), and the witnesses are allowed to be present unless the court gives specific permission for someone else.
  - 1.2. One who is present in such a session may not divulge information from that executive session to anyone without permission of the body, taken in executive session.
  - 1.3. See RONR (11th ed.), pp.95f for the description of Executive Session
2. The accused, prosecutor, and counsel for the accused do not exercise rights of judge in any discussion arising from the case (accused 31-11; counsel 32-19; prosecutor is not specifically mentioned, but it would seem to be a conflict of interest).
3. Accused may be represented by counsel (not professional, 32-19)—before a Session by any communing member of the same particular church (32-19); before Presbytery by any member of Presbytery.
4. The testimony of more than one witness shall be necessary to establish any charge. Corroborative evidence may count as the second witness (BCO 35-3).
5. A husband or wife shall not be compelled to bear testimony against one another (BCO 35-2).
6. All testimony must be recorded and transcribed (BCO 35-7)
7. The record of the case is defined in BCO 32-18.
