OVERVIEW

From the heart of historic Charleston, Redeemer worships in an 1839-built sanctuary with a storied history of being a gospel presence in downtown. Our friendly congregation sings robustly on Sunday mornings to both new and old hymns accompanied by multiple instruments, including organ, piano, guitar, djembe drum, and more!

Planted 27 years ago by the recently retired Rev. Craig Bailey, Redeemer looks for its next lead pastor to help shepherd and grow its congregation.

OUR HEARTBEAT

Because we're downtown in the city center, Redeemer has a regional pull for congregants from all areas around Charleston. To help shepherd our widespread congregation, we host community groups that meet weekly for Bible study, fellowship, and a meal in the various buroughs of greater Charleston.

OUR CONGREGATION

- Average Sunday-morning attendance is 225
- Nearly 300 adults, 125 children
- 208 members, 143 regular attendees
